It is rumored that a new firm will be organized under the old name of A. T. Stewart & Co. Mrs. Stewart does not wish the firm name changed during her lifetime.

Uncle Justin Jones, the founder of "Harry Hazel's Yankee Blade," of Boston, has sold that paper to Hon. Albert Clarke who assumes its management. The Blade will be enlarged and appear in quarto form. "Harry Hazel" will continue to write for the Blade, "re-living" the multifarious and unceasing duties appearing to the publishing and mechanical department of the paper. The price of the paper will be unchanged, $2.00 per year or 5 cents per copy.

Training day at Augusta will commence Monday, Sept. 18th, and continue six days. Soldiers take notice.

On Thursday, Aug. 10th, at the New Church in Fryeburg will be given a grand concert. Miss Ada Carey, Miss Stockbridge, Miss Belle Bartlett, W. S. Breckett, Wm. H. Murry and other noted artists will take part.

A sudden flood occurred Monday in Williamsburg, Ohio. It swept away many bridges, some buildings and drowned numbers of live stock. It is feared some people have been lost.

It is sincerely hoped that Senator Frye will take pity on the postmasters of this weather and not send any more of his 20th of March speeches. The farmers are busy and won't even look towards the post-office, and the other folks are off to the beach or the mountains and these valuable documents have so filled up in the country post-offices that it is with difficulty that the postmaster can do anything but swear about the free distribution of "congress records," etc. Wait, please do, till the hay crop is secured and your absent constituents come home before visiting us with any more "Finance on Paper."

The Grand Army of the Republic will hold a semi-annual Encampment at Lake Umbagog, next Wednesday the 9th inst. rain or shine. All honorably discharged Soldiers and Sailors, with their wives and little ones and all friends of the organization are invited to be present. A long list of sports are given and a general good time will be had. Regarded fare on the Grand Trunk and other roads.

North Waterford.

Messrs. Elliott & Bartlett's spool mill just over the line in Albany is progressing finely. The building is up, boarded and shingled. It has a truss roof. The engine, which is stout to the extent of a hundred horse power is on its foundation. The drive wheel, which weighs three tons was put in place this week. The shafting has all been ordered and will be shortly put in position. It is expected that the mill will be in operation by the middle of Sept. When fully completed this will be the best equipped and largest spool factory in the State. The enterprising firm own a large amount of lumber in this section and it is expected they will push business when once started. The town showed their appreciation of the firm by exempting them from taxes for ten years if they would rebuild. Their old mill was burnt last June. The only accident thus far in rebuilding has occurred to the smoke stack. The old one was unnecessarily smashed during the exciting hours of the fire. The new one had been put in position, and had been partially painted when a guy broke and it fell, damaging it to the extent of $50 or more.

Waterford.

John Kilgore, wife, and daughter Nellie, of Hallowell, N. Y., formerly of Waterford, are visiting relations and friends hereabout. Mr. K. has been gone from Waterford over twenty years, and is conductor of a Pullman car, running from Boston to Hornellsville, making a run of 487 miles.

Mrs. Bishop and three children, Miss Susan Wilkins, Miss Mary Martin, and Master Fred Davidson, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., lately arrived at F. M. Atherton's, So. Waterford.

Dr. Henry McIlhatton of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending his annual vacation for the ninth time in Waterford. Tick Doctor maintains his old time reputation as front fisherman and glass ball shooter.—Cor. Bridgton News.

South Waterford.

Cobb & Haggood have a splendid mill property for sale. Grist mill and saw-mill. About 25 acres of land goes with the mill. There is good timber on the land. The mills are well supplied with machinery and tools. Will be sold cheap. Those interested should inquire of Freeman Howe of Norway, or address the owners at this place.

Many of our farmers have had to succumb to the excessive heat of the past week. Mr. Eben F. Bell received a very bad sun stroke. Mr. James Shaw, Geo. A. Hall and Kim Killgore are badly used up, and others in other parts of the town, we learn.

Rev. Dr. Allen preached a powerful sermon Monday evening at the M. E. Church to a very fine congregation. If it had been much finer there would not have been anybody there.

The family of Mr. Chas. Young is spending a few weeks at their old home. It is hoped they will soon make a permanent stay.

Master Bert Nelson had a very narrow escape from instant death, Monday, in crossing the mill dam of E. W. Ayer. He lost his footing and fell six feet striking on his back. A rock weighing 100 pounds falling the same instant lodged directly across him, pinning him solid to the ground. When the rock was lifted off him he went out like a squirrel, not hurt a bit. It can't be done again.

We are glad once more to see our two "Oliver" lads in town. They don't come to swing in hammocks or put on airs, but to "laugh and grow plump." We refer to Mr. Geo. Stanwood and Mr. A. Young of Boston.

E. W. Ayer is making everything about his Carding Mill and premises in first class shape. He is bound to sell. Give him a call.

Fruit crops look very promising. Potatoes and corn are suffering very badly for rain.

Rev. Mr. Twort, of East Otisfield, is spending his vacation at Gingham Normal School, last Saturday and Sunday. Monday evening he preached a sermon of great spiritual power and eloquence, at South Waterford.

The clergymen of Bridgton, Harrison, Waterford, etc., held a Ministerial Association at the residence of Rev. Mr. Lincoln at North Waterford, last Monday afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Rev. Mr. Raymond at Harrison.

West Paris.

We regret to learn that Charles Morgan, Esq., has decided to move to Portland. He has been a great help to our little village, was the prime mover in the building of Odd Fellow's Hall, and one of the most earnest workers in getting the consent of the Grand Lodge and neighboring Lodges for the establishment of Granite Lodge of Free Masons at this place, which is now one of the most flourishing Lodges in the county. The loss of such a man as Chas. Morgan to a little village like ours is one that will be severely felt.

Capt. A. Ross who was so severely injured in the gale a few weeks ago, by an iron hasp to a door being driven into his arm has nearly recovered, having now the partial use of his hand. I was invited by the Capt. to go over his garden, and was thoroughly surprised to know that we had such an enterprising horticulturist in our vicinity. July 4th plenty of green peas; a week later a plenty of string beans and new potatoes. At my visit the 28th, he had dried peas of this year's growth, the ground where the peas grew being sowed to turnips. Tomatoes nearly ripe, beets, turnips, cabbages and onions in an advanced growth and nearly ready for market. And last but not least, he showed me one of the handsomest litters of little pigs I have seen for many months.

Our enterprising meat man, J. A. Tread, is furnishing his customers with nice steak for 15 cents a pound.

Bryant's Pond.

The Steam Mill has shut down for want of orders for spoils.

Miss Carrie Wood of Boston, a young lady of 20 years of age who was spending the summer months at this place, was taken suddenly and violently insane some three weeks ago, and died last Friday morning at what her physician called paralysis of the brain. She was an amiable young lady, and her death was a severe blow to her relatives and friends.

The stages go loaded every night to Andover with tourists to the Lakes and vicinity.

W. H. Cole, Esq., has been buying a large quantity of wood for Mr. Falkner of Turner.

Harrison.

The splendid hay weather of last week was well improved by our farmers, and large quantities of hay were stored in fine condition. No hay has been materially injured on account of wet weather. The crop is very satisfactory. Last week witnessed the beginning of a drought, the fields and gardens showing the need of rain. On Friday and Saturday refreshed the surface of the ground somewhat.

C. F. Ricker, foreman and principal manager of the machine works of J. H. Ricker & Sons, in attempting to throw a belt from a pulley while in motion one day last week, received a stunning blow from a lever, which crushed the bridge of the nose, and inflicted a serious wound, rendering him insensible for several hours. On Saturday Mr. Ricker had recovered so as to be out of bed.

Rev. Mr. Andrews whose illness was reported last week still remains very low.

Mrs. Raymond, though quite weak from the effects of severe illness is now convalescent.

Joseph Purinton is erecting a new cottage on the North Bridgton road.

A petition signed by over sixty prominent farmers and nearly every principal business man at the village is in the hands of the Selectmen, for a new road from the foot of the Devens Hill, Worcester, N. Y., to C. P. Matlock, a point near the Pond, which is intended to afford easy and safe transportation of wood, timber, hay and other heavy farm produce to the village market. This road, if located and built, will accommodate a large number of townspeople and the general public.

[From our Bolster's Mills correspondent.]

On the first day of this month our correspondent had the pleasure of spending an hour or two in looking over the premises of Rathbun Davies Esq., of Harrison. Although he does a large amount of business in lumbering, boating, etc., he finds time to look after matters on his farm, which is one of the best and most pleasantly situated in town, about one half mile from Harrison village. Mr. D. has the most and most convenient buildings in the town of Harrison. He is engaged quite extensively in fruit growing, having about ten acres of orcharding, containing nearly 1200 trees, 800 apple trees, all grafted with the best varieties of fruit, and the remainder are pear, peach and plum trees. He also has a large amount of small fruit, including the choicest varieties of grapes, blackberries, etc. He has a part in front of his house, across the road, containing from one to two acres, beautifully laid out, surrounded by a splendid hedge, nearly up to his elbow, the other to his mouth with a huge fig of tobacco planted away with heroic fortitude. As soon as he could speak he greeted us with his usual cordiality and in answer

South Woodstock.

Holland Curtis has sold his dwelling house and out buildings to Frank R. Andrews, son of Isaac W. Andrews, Esq., and moved to West Paris. Noticing Isaac's posters headed with big letters, I concluded to call round and see what had happened. We found Isaac in one of his happiest moods, with one hand in his pocket, nearly up to his elbow, the other to his mouth with a huge fig of tobacco planted away with heroic fortitude. As soon as he could speak he greeted us with his usual cordiality and in answer to our questions said he had failed for once to meet all the demands upon him for coffins and caskets. He supplied most all the adjoining towns and had filled orders twenty miles away. He has been in the business thirty years, and he informs me that he has sold more coffins and caskets this year so far than in any one year for some thirty years. His good taste in trimming his coffins and low prices may have much to do with his extensive sales.

Mr. Ziba Andrews, more than 70 years of age, has done the work on his farm, has cut his barn full of hay and got through haying and is ready to help some younger man less fortunate.

Andover.

The Democrat correspondent says: That Mr. E. V. Stevens of North Turner is a successful and popular teacher. The village school closed last week. Rev. Mr. Dame and family are visiting at Falmouth. T. H. Abbott has sold his house to Moses Stevens of Haverhill, Mass., for $300.

Bethel.

Mr. Woodman Gerrish met with a slight accident Tuesday, at Skilling's spool factory. Reaching his hand forward before the bit for boring the spools, his sleeve caught on the bit, and in a twinkling the bit bored through his right arm, making a nice hole. In drawing his arm away it was bent and broken nearly off, but protruded on both sides of his arm. It was found the bit had bored directly through the principal bone of the arm. It was done about as quick as a bullet would do it, but without any fracture whatever.

Mrs. Wm. Macomber fell backward down the cellar stairs while at a neighbors, and injured her quite seriously.

Miss Jackson of Norway, closed her second term of school on Grover Hill last week. She has proved a very successful teacher, as attested by the progress of her pupils.—Cor. in Mountain.

Sweden.

Miss Olive Knight died last Friday evening. She was the only daughter of Moses Knight, and twenty-nine years old. Her health has not been good for more than six years, and consumption at last overcame her. The funeral services were held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at the school house in the Haskell district, by Rev. J. H. Snow.

Mr. Daniel M. Knight, who for many years has resided with his brother Stephen in the west part of the town, was buried Sunday. He was a native of Maine, and had been in the west for about seventy years of age. The cause of his death is believed to be disease of the heart. Several years ago Mr. Knight represented this district in our State Legislature.

Thomas E. Kendall, one of our carpenters left town Monday morning for Orono, N. H., where he is engaged to work at his trade.

Fashions in Lies.

A One-Eyed Man Looking for Something New.

"What is the style of spring lie, this season?" asked a one-eyed man, as he dropped down by the exchange editor's desk. "Leave your hands slowly," said the editor, "and I will tell you the latest convertible snake, that breaks up into pretexts and comes together at the call of the presiding link."

"Haven't seen anything of it," replied the exchange editor, "but I have heard of it. It is a new kind of lie, that shifts a state line a hundred feet and landed a river in a cotton-wood grove without disturbing a ripple."

"I'm glad of that," said the one-eyed man, rubbing his hands slowly. "I never liked that lie. It always seemed far-fetched and unwholesome; besides, you couldn't help thinking that a frog might swallow a quorum of the snake and not leave enough to transact business. Do you see anything of that lie about the dragon out in Illinois, with wings like a corn-patch and a smell of brimstone? Is the dragon current this year?"

"Haven't struck him yet," answered the editor, eliminating the profanity from a far western account of a mine explosion, in which 40 men were blown through the side of a mountain seven miles thick. "If he is around he's flying very low."

"That pleases me, too," smiled the one-eyed man, stroking his chin. "The only objection I ever had to that dragon was the smell. If he were so common, reasonable. If they had said he smelled of brimstone and molasses it might have worked in a girl's boarding house as a fair spring lie, but they couldn't fix it to do for them unless they performed him with blue pills. It was a great mistake. Have you struck the fresh particulars about the sea-serpent since the thaw?"

"Too early for him," returned the editor, writing a new head line to an account of a baby who fell out of a window 60 feet and bounced back without split, bruise or chip off. "He will be around by the 14th of July."

"The 14th of July," murmured the one-eyed man. "I reckon you're right. Yes, you're right; with a head like a barrel and eyes like coffee cups; estimated by Mr. William Jennings of Topeka township to be at least two-thirds of a mile long. Yes, that's his date, July 14. I like to read about him. There's always something breezy and fresh about that serpent, though he must be getting on in years now."

What's become of the two old people that were born at the same moment and died within 10 minutes of each other, at the advanced age of 104? Ain't they dying this season?"

"Not that I've heard of," rejoined the exchange editor, prunning down a long article on a boy who was out in half lengthwise by a steam grindstone, and whose recovery was confidently expected by eminent local physicians.

"I hope they haven't quit the business?" observed the one-eyed man with anxiety. "I've kind o' warmed up to those old chumps. There was something unanimous about 'em that caught me, and I count on getting up to 'em regularly if I am going to keep my health. May be the backward season is against 'em. What's the news about the skeleton found in the tree with a bag of money tied to his spine? Let's see, he's a spring product, isn't he?"

"No, fall," replied the editor, glancing over a report of a man who had just been relieved of a live lizard that had fed on his kidneys for 40 years. He'll come around about the 3rd of October."

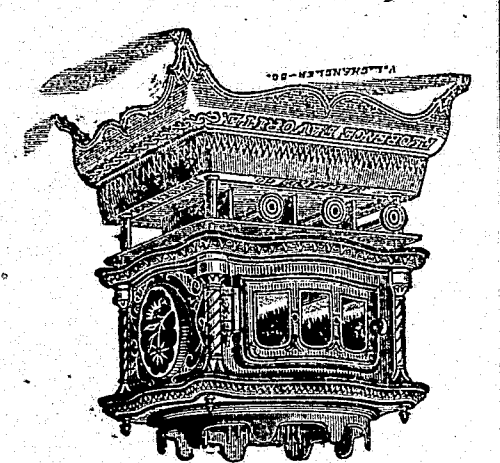

"Just so, just so. I was misled on him. He's an old friend of mine; seems like one of the family; and if they should go over the season without finding him, appears as though I should begin to pine. Is there anything new this spring; any servant girls making Greek poetry in their sleep, any live frogs found concealed in a Philadelphia brick, and springing eight feet in the air after a confinement of 18,000 years? Anything of that sort?"

"Nothing," sighed the exchange editor, putting the sub-heads into an account of a while climbing to the top of a lighthouse to borrow a match. "Nothing fresh, except this one about the payment of a church mortgage out in Wisconsin, but that won't be popular among the Christians."

"Suppose not; I suppose not," murmured the one-eyed man. "Well, I'm much obliged. So long! It warms me up to see old ones come 'round. A man of my age would miss 'em if they let up, and I began to be a little dickerish about the serpent and the skeleton, until you explained the dates."

And as he went out, the exchange editor turned over an article on an old woman of 90 who was cutting her eighth set of false teeth and fourth head of hair.—Brooklyn Eagle.
